

SOCIOLOGY

DIVISION: Social Sciences

Sociology is the scientific study of society, social institutions and social relationships. Sociology examines how social structures, such as the workplace, political, economic, educational, and religious institutions affect individuals and how individuals influence these structures. In Sociology courses, you will explore how people's socioeconomic status, race, ethnicity, age, gender, sexualities, and marital status affect their attitudes, behavior, and chances in life.

The Sociology courses at PCC explore society, social institutions, and social relationships. Learn, analyze and deepen your understanding of contemporary social problems, modern family living, ethnic and urban studies, and crime and delinquency. Earn your AA-T, complete your lower division requirements and be ready to transfer and earn your Bachelor of Arts Degree in Sociology.
